

AN INTERNAL MEMO FROM THE NATIONAL SPARKS DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF HUMANS' RESOURCES

How To Survive A Moose Attack

Hello my little adventurers,

You may not realize it but mooses (or meese as we think they should be called) are one of the most dangerous animals in Canada.

Here's a step-by-step guide of how to survive a moose attack:

Step 1: Don't panic. Fear is an aphrodisiac for the moose.

Step 2: Stand perfectly still.

Step 3: Face the moose head-on.

Step 4: Extend your arms directly in front of you.

Step 5: Stretch out each individual finger on both hands.

Step 6: Slowly, raise your hands above your head, with your thumbs touching your temples.

Now the moose will assume you are a fellow moose. You're safe... for now.

Alternately, if you encounter a flock of meese, chances are they will see right-through your impression and most likely, be very offended.

Apologize. And really mean it. The moose can sense insincerity.

