

Dear

We are expressing our most sincere and enthusiastic congratulations to who has now earned the prestigious Certified E-Discovery Specialist (CEDS) credential.

The CEDS designation is awarded to professionals who have successfully completed the rigorous CEDS examination—an exam which objectively measures an individual’s broad-based knowledge on the challenging topic of e-discovery. The CEDS certification program is administered by the Association of Certified E-Discovery Specialists (ACEDS), the preeminent international organization for e-discovery professionals worldwide.

A Certified E-Discovery Specialist has demonstrated their comprehensive e-discovery knowledge and are an asset to their organization. We encourage you to support the CEDS certification exam for your colleagues and organization, as this credential indicates a dedication to excellence and education that is tangible for peers, clients, and the broader community alike.

As a current ACEDS member, your employee will continue to have access to quality live and on demand training presented by top experts in the field. ACEDS webinars, training programs, events, and networking opportunities make it convenient and cost effective to stay informed of best practices and hot topics in the e-discovery field. ACEDS also offers group savings on team training, and we would be happy to assist additional members of your team in working towards the CEDS credential.

Thank you for supporting e-discovery professionals and the valuable work they do, and congratulations once again to

Best regards,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'Mike Quartararo', is positioned below the 'Best regards,' text.

Mike Quartararo
President

