American Generations of Family Farming

Six Generations of American Farming
Nearly 100 YEARS of GROWING EXPERTISE

In 1909, Andrew Duda left his homeland in Europe’s Astro-Hungarian Empire and traveled to the United States in pursuit of the American dream. For several years he and his young family struggled to pay for the 40 acres he had claimed, and to bring in a successful crop. Finally, in 1926, the family’s first cash crop of celery was taken to market and A. Duda and Sons was formed.

Today, as the fresh produce division of DUDA, we are a sixth-generation, family-owned, Florida-based Corporation with production and shipping operations in the United States, and internationally.
