Dear Valued Customer,

This letter is to inform you that one of the raw materials used in the attached Resin Formulators formulation list is currently unobtainable due to a supply disruption and will be for the foreseeable future. The raw material impacted is a difunctional reactive diluent used for viscosity modification. Resin Formulators has identified a chemically identical replacement that we have used in a variety of our proprietary formulas. Given our experience with the identical inputs, we are confident that the revised formulations will continue to meet all application requirements in addition to your particular specification-defined requirements.

We are happy to provide product samples using these identified formulations. For any of our aerospace specification certified applications, we will coordinate samples for assessment and approval of the alternative ingredient.

Please contact your Technical Account Manager if you have any questions or would like to request a sample of the replacement formula for testing.

Thank you,

David Ash-Gilbert
