WHY it's a favorite:

"It is 100% engaging for students by allowing each student to experience learning through the engineering design process. They get to design, engineer, prototype, use drafting skills, test, create, compete, and love learning!"

~ Harvey Dean, CEO,
50-year Pitsco employee

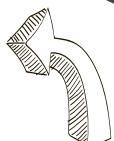

FUN FACT: The earliest records of CO₂ races were recorded in the February 1947 issue of Popular Science. Douglas Aircraft plant engineers built and raced CO₂ cars on their lunch breaks.

2

WIN THIS!

WHY it's a favorite:

"It's such a fun product that's stood the test of time. It's appealing to all ages, elementary kids up to adults."

~ Paul Uttley, R&D Manager,
29-year Pitsco employee

FUN FACT: Pitsco has manufactured 22,845 Straw Rocket Launchers since the product launched in 1999.

"As the person who is in charge of product development, I view the Straw Rocket Launcher as the ideal product. It has uses for all ages (K-12 and even adults; teaches and reinforces concepts in math, science, engineering, and technology; and is at a price point that most customers can easily afford. And last, but not least, it's HIGHLY engaging!"

~ Matt Frankenberg, Vice President of Education, 22-year Pitsco employee

STREAM Missions

WHY it's a favorite:

"As a former elementary teacher, I would have LOVED to have this program. It is interdisciplinary – combining reading and writing with science and math application through collaborative lessons – and it engages all types of learners. We have seen so much success in all students – particularly students who didn't fare well in the traditional classroom. I've always known it was a great program for all types of learners, but when I watched my autistic nephew love school again and thrive in his fifth grade Missions classroom, that was all the proof I needed."

~ Ruthie Muller, Sr. Outbound Marketing Manager and Systems Portfolio Owner, 13-year Pitsco employee
