Higher Education Policy Update – Thursday, August 12, 2:00 PM ET

In April 2021, AGB published Top Public Policy Issues for Higher Education 2021-2022, an overview of the most pressing federal and state public policy issues affecting higher education. Since then, President Biden has released a budget proposal and multiple trillion-dollar policy proposals, the U.S. Department of Education has taken steps on issues such as Title IX and institutional accountability measures, and Congress occasionally finds bipartisanship in a partisan era. Remember to join this AGB webinar to gain insights from higher education experts in Washington who will discuss the latest news and movement in Washington and answer your questions about the future of higher education public policy.
