Build Your Drupal Expertise

evolvingweb

Get the most out of Drupal by building your in-house expertise

We'll guide you through whether Drupal is a good fit for your organization, help you plan your Drupal adoption strategy, and teach the technical know-how your team needs to do Drupal the right way.
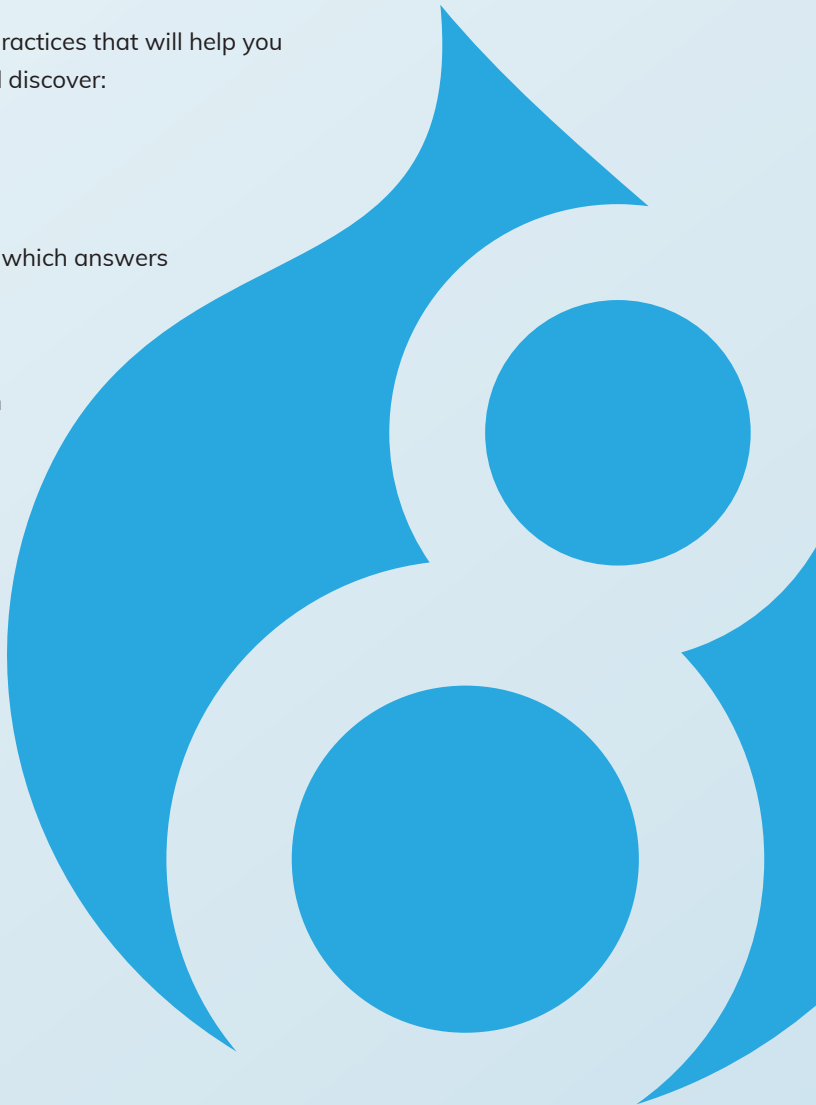

Who is it for

We train content strategists, project managers, site administrators, designers, and developers.

What you'll learn

Our training focuses on the technology and best practices that will help you achieve your marketing and strategic goals: You'll discover:

- What Drupal can do for your organization
- Creating a strategy for Drupal adoption
- What questions to ask developer teams, and which answers they want most
- Best practices for digital creators
- How to manage content effectively, and push it where it needs to go
- Managing digital assets and creating publishing workflows
- How to build out technical solutions that follow industry best practices
- How to do everything Drupal from site architecture to content migration to advanced module development

Who we've trained

We've provided hands-on training for teams at countless leading organizations, including:

Why Train with Us?

We deliver hands-on training, teach best practices, and provide one-on-one support to all our students. Here are the top 8 reasons why you should take a Drupal training with us:
