

D-TECK Reports Are Changing Names - Q&A

Announcement | As of on November 26, 2020, D-TECK reports will officially become the property of Humance.

Q: What is the new name of the D-TECK Reports?

A: D-TECK reports will now be called Humance's Go Assessments.

Q: What are the concrete changes?

A: As of on November 26, the reports with pre-established profiles (Standard Reports by Job Family), user guides and other report-related support documents will adopt the colours of Humance and will display the new name.

Q: Do the profiles and contents of these reports change?

A: No. All 23 reports will still have the same content and the same scientific rigour that combines the power of algorithms and organizational psychology. The only thing that changes is the visual display.

Q: What about D-TECK's customized reports?

A: Customized reports will be changed at a later date and we will contact the clients affected by these changes before they are made.

Obtaining or purchasing reports

Q: Will the steps to obtain or purchase Go Assessments change?

A: The processes to assign assessment and to obtain the reports remain the same.

Q: Are prices affected by this change?

A: No, the prices remain the same.

Support and invoicing

Q: Who provides client support for Go Assessments?

A: Support for the implantation and use of these reports (for example, training) will continue to be provided by D-TECK in order to ease the transition.

Q: What about the business proposals or invoices that display D-TECK?

A: Any reference to D-TECK reports remains valid and applicable for agreement-related documentation like business proposals and invoicing.
