

Cecelia

The door bursts open and Robine strolls through, taking her usual one o'clock bathroom break. But today is different, today Robine was going to the bathroom in the forum, not to her normal bathroom stop in the house. But someone wasn't suspecting a teacher in the bathroom at this time, she had studied all the teachers bathroom breaks throughout her years at Waring. This was so she could plan for the best possible time to perform her Tik Tok's. So when 12:55 rolled around she hurried out of her Humanities class with Joshua, to the bathroom. She slid her phone out of her super-secret TikTok fanny pack, the special holographic one from Savers. Once she got into the bathroom she set her phone on the sink ready to record some stellar videos to get her famous. Today she was especially excited because Daniel Radcliff had commented on her new video, where she played Lil' Pump on her cello, she had called the video #CecthePlug and #Celloisthebest. She had to prove to Daniel that she needed a part in the new Harry Potter movie. Once she had already uploaded two TikTok's, one she made the day before, when she went outside sang a french song in the rain, through the trees, and she did all this while licking a lollipop. The second one she was going to film now in the bathroom and she had an idea. First she called all her friends into the bathroom. She texted Annie, (yes she drove to Waring) Will, Anna, Gyani, and Maddie to come to the bathroom as quickly as they could. Five minutes later the six of them were standing in the bathroom in front of the sink. Once they had danced, sung and fooled around, they all went back to class, but she stayed to do one more dance, Renegade. This would finish off her successful day of TikToking. While starting into the last ooh ha ha, Robine strolled in. She regretted her decision to do that last dance, but little did she know it would save the world. Robine ordered her to go straight to Tim Bakland's office to have a talk about her actions. She explained to Tim that she was just really obsessed at the moment and she couldn't stop her urge to do Tik Toks. Tim wouldn't hear it from her and sent her home, she was suspended for a week. While she was at home for the next week she thought a lot about her actions, she still will be in the future limiting herself to five tiktoks a day. She also did a lot of research on the new advancements concerning climate change. Her new idea was to shut down all companies that are producing harmful gases. So she made a TikTok for Charlie Baker to tell him her idea, then it was put in place all over the country! Charlie Baker loved her TikTok and it became the most famous TikTok ever made. Everyone was so inspired that they changed their actions and now are producing way less waste. When she went back to school, everyone was so happy to see her. They had forgotten all about how she banned TikTok from Waring. All they cared about is that she solved climate change problems all over the world. The renowned Cecelia Russel, TikTok banner and climate change solver!

