R2 second piece

We are coming back to you with more information about the new founder of MeMas, the app that lets you share your favorite memes with your friends with one button. The app also allows you to scroll through pages of memes you may have forgotten existed. It can also connect to most messaging apps so you can share memes with people who may not even have the app though now we doubt there is anyone without it. The creator of this app and former army general Sam Hoang is happy to inform us that there will be an update coming out soon that will help new memes to be made but don't get too excited because it might be a while knowing his habits of procrastination. Sam thinks it is important that there is no shortage of memes for the public to enjoy. He has transformed the world of memes and we would all like to thank him for it. In a recent interview we asked him when he got the idea to create this masterpiece and he said, "well I was driving my friend Sarah home one day and it just hit me, the world needs more memes."

This is just one of the many accomplishments of the remarkable young gentleman. He is also known for his help in launching the econ rocket that is said to be the first step towards our first space colony. As Stated in an interview "It was always something that I had hoped would happen and I am glad that I got to be a part of it. However it wasn't all easy, and you know what there were a lot of people that laughed when I first told them my idea, but look who's laughing now! Me. I am, thanks to my now easily found memes." However if even those accomplishments are not enough Sam has also had a big hand in the newly released allergy soother. It is a serum that helps reduce the symptoms of allergies. Sam stated that "I am just tired of having allergic reactions whenever I eat peanuts, which is fairly frequently, so I decided that I would help fund a research project to see if there was anything I could do about it, turns out there was. I also think that everybody should be able to eat what they want and it just made me sad that there are people who can't enjoy the free bread at Texas Roadhouse or people like me who have to suffer whenever eating Reese's peanut butter cups, and I think that is all I have to say.”
