

Cracking the property productivity puzzle and the ROI of better email management

Real estate companies are increasingly embracing digital technologies, driven by the need for improved efficiencies, cost reductions and decision making.

Investment in digital, IT and PropTech is driven by:

Unfortunately, too often, digital strategies rarely incorporate data management or a data strategy.

Only 25% of firms have a well-established data strategy

A third have no data strategy at all

Additionally, low levels of system integration is hindering technology ROI and overall productivity.
