Student loan repayment assistance

Student loans weigh heavily on the minds of many Americans

The impact is felt across generations

With average indebtedness at $32,000, student loans are preventing people from reaching their financial goals

Financial stress can lead to poor work performance, increased absence, and lower engagement

It doesn't have to be this way

You have the power to help your employees better manage their student loans, reduce financial struggles, and achieve their financial goals

By adding a new employee benefit that makes tax-free payments toward their student loans

And with 32% of employers expected to offer this benefit in 2021, it's becoming a highly desired recruitment and retention tool
