Keep your work environment safe during this difficult time with VoIP Supply's esi Access 5D Thermal Reader!

Applications

The SN500 is ideal for such applications as SIP trunking and unified communications as a service (UCaaS)—with a cloud/hosted PBX.

Starter Offer for Resellers

* Get one no-cost SN500 when you acquire one at the normal price.

The SN500, SoHos and SMEs that want to implement such cloud-based communication services as SIP trunking, unified communications (UC), or hosted PBX can finally address the complex network-protection, interoperability, and service-quality challenges that come with ALL-IP deployments—without paying enterprise-level prices for a more expensive, higher-capacity eSBC than they really need.

Manage the 5D Thermal Reader via the EZ Access Station
The Windows®-based application configures and communicates with all ESI Access™ 5D Thermal Readers installed at the site. This application makes it easy to customize and monitor the solution from one location. The password-protected application will allow administrators to manage all 5D readers on the network, set entrance and reporting (alerting) criteria, view applicable entry logs, communicate via two way audio, monitor the live video feeds and much more!

- Fully-customizable entry detection criteria
- No contact temperature measurements
- Temperature detection range between 86°F to 113°F
- Configurable temperature thresholds
- PPE face mask detection
- Two-way audio with EZ Access Station terminal
