MASERGY

In the past year, the intensity of ransomware attacks on mid-enterprise organizations have caused IT business leaders to consider new security strategies that leverage endpoint detection and response (EDR). The challenge is that EDR is a complex technology that requires expertise to make effective.

Our Managed EDR customers were unaffected by all ransomware attacks

Masergy Managed EDR protects against ransomware and malware risks facing mid-sized enterprises that traditional endpoint security tools fail to stop. Masergy Managed EDR is a turnkey, fully managed solution combining advanced technology, mature security processes, and hard-to-find expertise required by your customers to effectively mitigate ransomware attacks.

This affordable solution is powered by Gartner® Magic Quadrant EDR Leader SentinelOne, with Masergy adding the much-needed expertise via our 24/7 global security operations centers. Our expert EDR analysts triage alerts around the clock—making quick decisions to mitigate any ransomware threats on customer endpoints. These analysts also work closely with the customer teams to explain the security threat and assist with any additional actions. Masergy Managed EDR provides your customers with reduced ransomware risk exposure, as well as reduced workload on internal IT security teams.

Get up to 3 months of our Managed EDR service with this limited-time promotion

All new Masergy Managed EDR deals closed between July 1, 2022—December 31, 2022, will receive 1 month of free EDR service for every 1 year of their service contract.
