

Are your elderly relatives safe at home during this coronavirus pandemic?

The first question is are they staying at home? We have noticed that, despite Florida's stay-at-home advisory for those 65+ and with underlying conditions, a lot of seniors continue going out. In the last week, we heard about a few people's elderly relatives going to stores multiple times in a day, and then repeating that again the next day.

How can we encourage our elderly relatives to stay safe at home during coronavirus concerns, rather than going out?

As different areas tighten up restrictions, we suggest having a conversation to find out why they are going out, listening to what they need, plus what might the underlying reason for it. And with our “Safe at Home” Package, we can help with ensuring they have what they need.
