

It's time to start saving for your experience and provide information to your parents to plan for your clinical rotation.

WHY SHOULD YOU CHOOSE AMO AS AN EARLY-YEAR MEDICAL STUDENT?

While prospective visitors do not yet have clinical training, AMO can help provide information about clinical rotations in the U.S. so that the visitor can get acquainted with the American healthcare system. Resources like the blog are available to help.

Early-year medical students will have ample time to prepare for an experience during their clinical years. Since hands-on is only available to medical students, early-year students can begin to save money and research where they want to gain experience, whether specialty or location. Hands-on is generally for fifth or sixth-year medical students and students who are in their internship year.

Another benefit is that early-year medical students can introduce AMO to their parents. Since parents are primarily the financial supporters this allows us to build the trust factor between both the visitor and parent, while also giving parents the financial outlook they need.

AMO BUDGET GUIDE

The below are estimates and actual cost will vary.

We understand how important a U.S. clinical experience is to your medical education. Planning early allows you to budget appropriately. We want to make an AMO clinical experiences obtainable no matter the cost.

Per four weeks/month:

AMO Clinical Experience $2,000-$2,500 USD; affordable experiences between $1,000-$1,500 USD

Round Trip Flight

$650-$1,500 USD

B1 Visa

$150-$200 USD

Traveler's Health Insurance

$35-$75 USD

Professional Liability Insurance (for hands-on experiences)

$155 USD

Room and Board:

$600-$1,200 USD

Public Transportation (to and from clinical site)

$100-$200 USD

CONTACT US

+1 (312) 821-9020 x 2 advisors@amopportunities.org