

Como falar de compromissos futuros?

What are you doing tonight?

What about Saturday night?

What about Sunday?

You don't really like me, do you?

I'm having dinner with my family.

I'm playing videogame with my nephew.

On Sunday, I'm resting.

Hm... No, I don't.

What are you
doing tonight?

I'm having dinner
with my family.

Para perguntar:

What + to be + subject + gerund verb + adverb of time

What are you doing tomorrow morning?

What is she doing next Friday?

What is he doing this weekend?

What are your parents doing on Christmas?

What is Jack doing on his birthday?

What are you doing tonight?

I'm having dinner with my family.

Para responder:

Subject + to be + gerund verb (+ adverb of time)

I am working this Saturday.

My parents are coming to visit next Holiday.

He is traveling to Europe in December.

Kate isn't doing anything tonight.

We aren't going to the party on Sunday.

This is Ellen's appointment book.

What is she doing on Monday?

She's going to the dentist.

This is Ellen's appointment book.

What is she doing on Tuesday?

She's meeting some friends for lunch.

This is Ellen's appointment book.

What is she doing on Wednesday?

She's working on a report.

This is Ellen's appointment book.

What is she doing on Thursday?

She's taking her kids to the doctor.

This is Ellen's appointment book.

What is she doing on Friday?

She's going to the movies with Kelly.

This is Ellen's appointment book.

What is she doing on the weekend?

She isn't doing anything.

Você sabia?

Essa estrutura que acabamos de estudar (to be + gerund verb) é chamada de Present Continuous. Como o nome já diz, o Present Continuous é também usado para falar do presente, mas vamos tratar desse assunto em outra oportunidade.

Agora eu sei quando a pessoa está falando do presente ou do futuro!

Uma dica é se ligar no contexto e nas expressões que indicam tempo:

tomorrow, this weekend, next week, on Sunday, in January, on my birthday, in five years são exemplos de expressões que indicam futuro.

right now, at this moment, as we speak e nowadays são exemplos de expressões que indicam presente.

Quiz Challenge

<https://quizizz.com/join?gc=10080774>