

Summary

Every human invention has been a guiding light for all of humankind. Advancements in every field have impacted our lives and what better advancements than the ones that have happened here at Silicon Valley.

This is a tribute to the people who have contributed immensely; to make this city what it is today. Through this design we aim to honour the people, the city and the culture they have created to which the whole world looks towards and praises. This is more than just a monument, it reflects the ambition and the vision of the people of San Jose, Silicon Valley.
