

“The Wings” - A dynamic landmark: “The Wings” breaks the convention of existing landmark structures and makes an impact through a dynamic form that changes with time. It is made up of a series of feather like structures that can stand to show from a distance or shade the natural habitat from any human intervention. It responds to ecological sensitivity of the site. The structure is dominant but it can be subdued to nature and protect it at any time when there is need.