

PROJECT SUMMARY

Project arises from the considerations made on the nature of the place and on the needs of a new center of aggregation and urban attraction.

The naturalness of the place leads to the definition of a natural generative 3D grid that will be applied to the project area.

The site has been divided into polymorphic cells that generate paths, spaces and volumes; the multiplication of the functional cells that redistribute the space also occurs vertically on a new iconic vertical structure that maintains the compositional language of the project and shows a new visual emergency within the San José skyline.