

URBAN CONFLUENCE, SILICON VALLEY
SAN JOSE LIGHT TOWER CORPORATION
Project Summary

An Iconic Destination

Much as the site is a confluence of two rivers, Silicon Valley is a confluence of ideas and innovators crossing paths and reinforcing each other's spontaneity and progression. To reflect this, the site has been developed similar in organization to that of a river delta.

The primary intervention runs along two of these paths and is generated with two series of interconnected spires. The resulting forms suggest a pair of hands or wings. The spires are an expression of the pioneering spirit and desire to reach past the established limits; one that is highly prevalent in Silicon Valley.
