

LANDFORM

Project Summary

The experience of preserved nature constitutes California's greatest monuments. Landform eschews an object in favor of the inherent monumentality of a natural landscape. Landform merely transcribes an excerpt of a found landscape in an iconic form - effortlessly evoking the timeless monumentality of nature. Sloped peaks, planted with polychromatic native grasses and flowers, encircle the undisturbed ecology of Confluence Point. Wildflowers anticipate the spectacle of an urban superbloom every Spring. The new monument asks less of what should be built, but rather what should be celebrated. A monumental public park becomes a new center for the city.
