

At the point of confluence by the two rivers, this new typology of landmark embraces its natural context into its heart of design that would induce the flow of the rivers and enlace the great surroundings of the city. The constant variation in its frontality formulates a twisted tower and a void that accumulates the panoramic scenes and views of the nature and the city around the site.

'Delta Enlace' acts as a vortex within San Jose, intertwining nature, innovation and culture. and adds one more stroke to the point of Confluence.
