

Unattainable goals can be achieved thanks to the union of ideas and enthusiasm.

Silicon Valley is a large “harbor” where qualified people come from all over the world with the desire to change it.

The Landmark is simple in shape, it changes over time and is flexible to new needs. It reflects the fast transformations of the contemporary world and its "instability" and "fragility".

It is composed of a set of containers taken from different parts of the world stacked one on top of the other like an irregularly shaped pyramid.