

Project summary

-The project or vortex is the use of the circle to explain the human journey through its past, present and future, which is reflected in the formation of blocks and project activities, and also the formation of the site through the Landscape using the circle or curves in general.

-The movement scenario begins with the simple entrance shape and begins a journey in the difference in design, but in a coherent way. The project lighting design was inspired by the lighting of the lighting tower, as it depends on the lighting in a circular shape, but the horizontal and not the main to avoid any damage to the surrounding environment.

-The distribution of plants relied on the project's parties in order not to obscure seeing any part of the project's land internally on groundcover and shrubs.

-Through the project, we call for renewable energy to be the future through solar panels in buildings, which we aspire to save more than half of the project's energy consumption.
