

PROJECT SUMMARY

If a Landmark is said to represent the identity of a place, the proposal aims to create a landmark that portrays positivity and addresses these societal issues, to show a positive identity that challenges its urban environment and implementing community based structure, instead of merely a 'medal' that shows the greatness of the city. Hence, Eco-Landmark aims to portray a positive symbol, an urban agricultural landmark that is adaptable to societal changes and demand via Metabolism ideology where buildings are perceived as living cells, having the ability to breathe and adapt to external stimulus.