

The Diode at Arena Green

This proposal brings together the two most significant advances that have changed San Jose - Agriculture development and high technology.

The Diode circuit inspires the building shape which represents the high-tech portion of the redevelopment of Arena Green that will illuminate the night sky. This structure is full of arts and educational opportunities attracting people from across the globe.

The orchards and fields of crops offer a bounty of fresh food for the proposed farmers' market and nearby neighborhoods and are intended to educate the public through tours and historic displays.
