

Bloom is a jellyfish that will tower over Silicon Valley. This landmark will incorporate recycled material and solar powered lights, to bring a sustainable piece of art for visitors. The jellyfish will use a similar structure as the San Jose Light Tower as the base, to pay remembrance to what once stood there years ago. Combining traditional ideas with newly innovative technology and lighting, the jellyfish demonstrates the evolution of Silicon Valley and technological advancement. It is a symbol of the every changing, ever flowing composition of a jellyfish, and also the change in technology as we progress through time.