

An impressive presence – both sculpture and functional architecture – Light Tower.

A path continuing the existing bridge goes on seamless to the new one to tie up West and East Area Green – at the confluence of past and future.

Commissioned to bring up people together...

The structure attempts to the highest limit to reach the sky almost 200 feet above ground. This tension of set requirements and aviation considerations, generates an introspective feeling, following over the slope upwards...

A light from within, a place that serves as a comfortable public space – an observatory, restaurants, bars, cafes – at intermediate levels creates opportunities for public viewing, community gathering, a remarkable visual presence that leads to communication...

In respect to nature and environment and preservation of the riparian corridor habitat we brought all the structure up to the height.
