

The history of humanity is but a speck of dust compared to the lifespan of Earth. At the convergence of the silent forces of nature, the Scape integrates park and tower into one cohesive whole. The beams are lifted to generate a landscape, a manifestation of the forces of nature. The timber structure is composed of recycled wood that is laminated and prefabricated into modules off-site and assembled on site. This minimizes the impact on the natural environment and the carbon footprint. The wood weathers and desaturates over time. Instead of resisting the erosion of time, the Scape embraces it.
