

Our proposal is built around the central theme of collective thinking, connection and living together, which we believe are the core values at Silicon Valley. Our age of new frontiers and creative minds demands architecture that responds to enhancement of public awareness to those values, social equilibrium and democratic space, creating new apertures to the synthesis of Silicon Valley. We want to bring to San Jose downtown an architectural narrative about an organic-endemic public realm as told through the story of a programmed landscape. We believe what makes an icon in our era is its program to increase public knowledge.
