

MAN AND TECHNOLOGY

Humanity and technology in this era cannot be separated. Technology has changed our lives in many positive ways, being necessary in our daily lives.

The element consists of five separated frameworks with human shapes in different positions. During daytime they are like big sculptures where the people can walk from one to another through bridges while contemplating landscape. At night, the panels that are set aleatory in each structure; have kinetic light forming different patterns of color lights, being a spectacle for the viewer.
