

Welcome to Wonderland

This project cultivates and celebrates imagination by creating an eccentric biome which is composed of gigantic and multi-scaled flora. The flowers are packed in a huge container (700' Length X 100' Width X 200' Height) and protruded edges are sliced off. It looks like a gravel wall creating peculiar perforation to see through real nature. The minimality of a glass floor (20' width) and ramps (5' width) held up with the flora enhances the project's two-sided nature, complexity and linearity, where people become a bee or butterfly.