

“Human Cosmos Generators” is a family of sculptures that will draw energy from the living world and reflect that engagement back to the site in San Jose through light, water, and sound. This reflection will unite all who seek or happen to interact with the pieces as one human family. United human engagement and environmental action are more important than ever. The display of the constellation of sculptures will evolve as environmental data changes and participants come and go. It will excite us to go beyond our preconceived limitations - taking us into the future cosmos.