

Silicon's North

We live in an era, where scientific technology covers all our daily tasks and intelligence needs. All, thanks to great scientific researchers with a clear vision of the future. To honor the City of Development and Technology, we propose a structure that challenges, dreams and projects us into a future that has arrived and must continue to advance. An icon for the city. The building offers, being the most daring and creative structure, bringing together construction technology and installations that manage to materialize and project the XXI century, through a structural area in which we dream and believe.
