

The Silicon Valley Arc will be an iconic piece of habitable architecture that spans across the Guadalupe River in the Arena Green park in San Jose, CA. The arc will be composed of a twisting skin that signifies the ever-evolving advancement of technology in Silicon Valley.

The western base of the arc will contain a lobby where occupants can access an inclined elevator that will take them to the interior observation deck to see sweeping views of all of downtown San Jose. The observation deck will also be used as a lecture or event space that local businesses can utilize.