

Talking Valley.

The foundation of this idea is creation.

The object provides new opportunities for communication, through conversation, information exchange, etc. This is an innovative method of talking with the city.

A solar power system is built into the egg's design, which allows the object to function autonomously and comply with the zero-energy standard