

Swarm

Rising from Guadalupe river is a swarm; a sight for many in Silicon Valley. The swarm embodies the identity and cyber data of Silicon Valley. It reacts to the flow of data in the city, and its “birds” fold and flatten based on digital activity. From a distance, the swarm is viewed as a moving sunset gradient - an exhibition of information through color and form. From within, one is incorporated into the swarm, as though another one of its “birds”. It is a promise and a reminder of the individual’s influence on a larger system.