

INCLUSIÓN TOWER

SAN JOSE, CA

The San Jose Inclusion Tower

The goal of the Inclusion Tower is to think big but stay humble. San Jose is a quiet city compared to its contemporaries. But it doesn't have to shout because its greatness lay in the accomplishments of its people. San Jose deserves a monument that is indelible, inviting, and speaks to the future.

The surrounding plaza will include a performance stage and pavilions exhibiting programs that tell the story of San Jose, its people, its origins, and accomplishments. Connecting walkways will lead to other parts of the Arena, SAP Center, and the new Google Mixed Use Complex.

While not disturbing the riparian habitat or distracting aircraft, solar powered uplighting will illuminate contoured features and interior cutaways as well as the underside of the dome.

The undulating sweep of the base and dome will cut through the lineal design of surrounding buildings. As it twists and swoons skyward, the tower will allude to the notion that all roads lead up.

The tower mixes a futuristic feel with a sense of organic growth as its base climbs through the sky to reach the saucer dome. Topped with a 110' diameter observation deck and restaurant 200' feet above the Arena Green, elevators and moving stairways will access vista points along the journey providing breathtaking views of the surrounding valley.
