

Confluent Confluences

Project Summary

This proposal embodies the confluences of rivers, wind, water air and fire(light), technologies, lives, and people; people with the planet, people with the stars, people with people. Major structures emerging from the site encircle two beehive shaped structures, huts, reminiscent of the first people's homes, yet in a scale compatible with the curving observation structure. Huts house educational displays. I propose that one encompasses confluences of local natural and human history and the second, the confluence of humans and technology.

Movement through this proposed solution is encouraged by the forms. Spaces for contemplation are also provided.
