

HERE : ON

Project Summary

The natural environment has long inspired us to transcend beyond the possible. In Silicon Valley, nature has evolved into technology.

HERE : ON embodies this symbiotic relationship through an organic form that offers an experiential journey, beginning against the backdrop of the Guadalupe River and following an evolutionary spiral from community farmers markets to digital gardens shared with the global community.

Visitors experience the continuous dialogue between nature and technology through multiple counterpoints and their specific surrounding views.

HERE : ON builds upon the dichotomies of Silicon Valley to an aspirational experience – an upward, transformative motion, inviting in the local and global community.