

Silicon Valley is home for innovators in science, technology, and academic research. Its landmark should represent its paeans to its technically adroit constituents. The design is a group of gigantic caterpillars. Their size represents the enormity of the city's creative endeavors; the caterpillar metaphors what the city was once. Like a caterpillar metamorphosing into a beautiful butterfly, Silicon Valley represents a culture of patience, resilience, and great progress. The "caterpillar" buildings and pedestrian bridges are in a gold finish, representing California's grandeur. The site plan will have minimal impact on existing trees and will preserve the nature of the two rivers.