

The Healing Gardens of Silicon Valley, a world icon to store the thoughts and teachings of humanity in a living time-capsule, will be composed of The Tower on the west side and The Forest on the east. Using a unique technology, plants within the gardens will store messages of humankind's greatest minds, which will be reproduced when touched by the visitors. The Tower will be illuminated at night with a mix of changing colors, influenced by which plants are being touched. The Forest will stand as a representation of the past, when nature was still not affected by humankind's transformations.
