

Project Summary

A tower or urban planning with tower has been historically and continually shaping a positive culture and global image to many cities. The feeling and emotion this project can contribute to visitors' experience should become a great focus. One of the features is an innovative way to allow greater involvement and participation from a diverse community. The main physique and profile of the tower are composed of three 'Freehand' curves. Travel through each space, visitors will experience a sustainable, artistic, and memorable landmark in San Jose.
