

DYNAMIC SCULPTURE OF A THINKING HEAD (SYMBOL, ICON OF SILICON VALLEY)

One principle –two designs (A,B)

This is a conflicting combination; The acting "Perpetuum Mobile" rejected by science and dynamic mechanism of the thinking head of the innovator.

"Perpetual motion" is an original, simple solution that provides "perpetual motion" without violating the basic law of physics "conservation of energy".

Author – author this offer.

To support the potential of the "Perpetual motion" - there are pumps for reverse water circulation, which return the used water /potential/ from the lower pool to the upper reservoir, in order to ensure the "eternal" surfacing of the cylinders, according to the law of Archimedes.

The "engine" starts working and transmits the rotational movement to the gears of the " brain "for thinking " of a new idea. A generator of electricity turns to charge the brain's lights cells, where new ideas are matured. By the end of the cycle, when a new idea has matured, there is a lighting flash with the inscription "Eureka". Symbol of maturation of a new idea! and the perpetual motion machine. freezes. After some time, the process is repeated in preparation for the birth of a new idea. Such pauses With a subsequent restart will be more intriguing for the audience.

The fact of the current model of the "Perpetual motion" can be seen in the attached video.

Given the gigantic size of the dynamic sculpture of the "Thinking head", curious visitors can get inside and study how "new ideas" are created. You can place advertising logos of the leading "engines" of new innovations and successful business of modern technologies in glass cylinders. These are; Google, Facebook, Tesla, Amazon, UBER, etc.

Moving glass cylinders covered with water drops (glittering like diamonds), the sound of running water hypnotize the audience to the sculpture. All will be filmed against this background repeatedly spreading advertising information presented in glass cylinders. This will be the most expensive ad. This sculpture is a machine that prints money. It will pay for itself and provide a profit.

In passive mode, when the " engine " does not work, the sculpture has normal lighting (illumination) from a stationary power source. After starting the pumps, the "engine" is triggered and its generator provides illumination to the entire system of mechanisms; moving gears, advertising in the cylinders of the "engine", active "brain" light cells. It's effective, profitable show that will appeal to all.
