

San José is the technology hub of the world, and technology is the gateway to infinite possibilities. This design uses a simple visual illusion (countless horizontal and vertical beams “The Net”) to represent infinity. The Net holds “The Rings” – the circular walkways. The Rings will appear to be floating in the sky. At night, only The Rings will be lit up, creating a magical futuristic effect. The Net will be integrated into the whole park. The entire park becomes the landmark. The building footprint is minimized, so there is a minimal disturbance to the greenery in the park.
