

This Arrow is the iconic “pointer” – a vibrant symbol of an information age. We see it daily on our screens, as we continue to connect and strive, click by click. It’s already San José’s beacon, because it was born of technology in this place. It belongs to you...yet it welcomes everyone.

And once it stands tall in the park, the symbol is reborn, ten-stories-fold. Now, it's a guiding vector, pointing to the convergence of nature and invention. Every time we see a pointer, we'll think of Silicon Valley—where we came from, where we are, and where we all are going together.