

Roots intelligence is a vegetal and human monument emerging in the heart and from the earth of Silicon Valley. Here, where the West Rush closed the map bringing back humanity to a single globe, nature and mankind started the new era of globalization. From all over the world secular trees bring a monumental representation of lands and culture to this pow wow like the reunion celebrating the circular meaning of life and the building of a new global ecosystem.

In a incremental process immaterial networks weave and take root generating a new common landscape: the bright sculpture of social interaction.
