

Project Summary:

Upon visiting Silicon Valley (The place that changed the world), all you see is just concrete buildings. There is absolutely NOTHING over there that really feels like Silicon Valley. People most of the time have no clue what's happening there unless they visit a specific office or a shop. The idea is to Capture the Essence of Silicon Valley into design and Celebrate its Culture of Innovation and Technology by displaying its latest inventions. Doing all that, but with Love!

Why Love? Because, the current circumstances of the world and the adversities that we have been facing lately show that no matter how technologically advanced or innovative we become, the world certainly cannot live without love. And, we should never forget that!
