

The creation of an iconic space which represents the strength of the City of San José has encouraged us to develop a technological, but naturalized, landscape for everybody's enjoyment. This space revolves around an iconic structure which represents progress itself. A self-sufficient tower due to a net-zero electrical system based on solar energy and a gray water purification system through a vertical garden. In addition to a landscape designed for enjoyment of both young people and adults, with a huge variety of activities and possibilities from playing to working, all in an environment-friendly space and its ecosystems.
